

Neygólwéxwm / Bowen Island

We respectfully acknowledge that Bowen Island's ancestral name is Neygólwéxwm and is part of the traditional and unceded territory of the Sḵwxw̓meš Nation.

Situated in Howe Sound, a natural fjord, surrounded by jagged mountain peaks, rocky ocean beaches, and endowed with an abundance of towering trees and diverse wildlife. Nature inspires a simpler, slower pace of life, a way of life that is cherished by both residents and guests.

While visiting, please help to preserve and protect this special place and small community. Not some of local do's and don'ts? We'll find answers and linked resources in this guide or contact us for more information. Your mindfulness and care will benefit us all, today and for generations to come. Thank you.
